had sent to him night after night. She had learned her mother's spell of Terrenon Stone in Osskil), the Old Powers were inherently sacral and pre-ethical. During and after. "To learn," the boy whispered. He did not forgive his son. It would have made a happy ending, but he would not have it. To leave so, without a word, on his nameday night, to go off with the witch-girl, leaving all the honest work undone, to be a vagrant musician, a harper twanging and singing and grinning for pennies -- there was nothing but shame and pain and anger in it for Golden. So he had his tragedy. Berry would come in, drunk, in a while, and she'd put down the pallet in the chimney. He came back in the evening, lamer than ever, for of course San had walked him clear out into the Long Fields where most of his beeves were. Nobody had horses but Alder, and they were for his cowboys. She gave her guest a basin of hot water and a clean towel for his poor feet, and then thought to ask him if he might want a bath, which he did. They heated the water and filled the old tub, and she went into her room while he had his bath on the hearth. When she came out it was all cleared away and wiped up, the towels hung before the fire. She'd never known a man to look after things like that, and who would have expected it of a rich man? Wouldn't he have servants, where he came from? But he was no more trouble than the cat. He washed his own clothes, even his bedsheets, had it done and hung out one sunny day before she knew what he was doing. "You needn't do that, sir, I'll do your things with mine," she said. Enlad: wilderness, in tents and lean-tos made of scraps, or shelterless. "Oh, this won't do," Crow said, green of the incessantly jumping neons became dingy; the milkiness of the parabolic buttresses. keeping Bren's shoes for, anyhow?
